Weather Key Points

Regional Operations Center

Western Region

Sunday, November 6

- A prolonged atmospheric river event will impact much of the state through Wednesday, bringing low elevation rain, heavy mountain snow, and periods of gusty winds
 - Periods of heavy rainfall will bring a greater threat for mudslides and rockslides Monday and Tuesday, especially across the Sierra Foothills and some burn scars. Thunderstorms may also bring locally heavy rainfall and accumulating small hail. Otherwise localized mainly nuisance flooding possible across the state.
 - Specific burn scars of concern include but are not limited to Fish, Route, Apple, El Dorado, Bond, Fairview, McKinney, and Washburn
 - Significant mountain snow accumulation of 1 to locally 4 feet is expected over the Sierra and far northern California mountains, with amounts of 12 to locally 18+ inches possible above 5,000 feet in southern California, and lighter amounts down to 4,000 feet.
 - Snow levels will lower throughout the storm, reaching as low as 3,000 feet across northern California and 4,000 feet over the south by later Tuesday and Wednesday.
 - Gusty winds of 35 to locally 50 mph will also accompany this storm.
 - Very difficult travel conditions are likely with low visibility due to a combination of wind and heavy snow, with the greatest impacts in the Sierra.
- Very cold temperatures will follow the storm Thursday and Friday
- Light precipitation will return across northwestern California on Friday, otherwise drier conditions are expected statewide Thursday through the weekend
